Will the Minister of ENVIRONMENT AND FORESTS be pleased to state:

(c) the number of such villages that have been identified for relocation; and

(d) whether there are still any villages required to be relocated?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF ENVIRONMENT AND FORESTS (SHRI NAMONARAIN MEENA): (a) As per the Wildlife (Protection) Act, 1972, no right can exist within a National Park. However, in the case of Sanctuary there is a provision to allow some rights in consultation with the Chief Wildlife Warden over any land within the limits of the Sanctuary. These provisions have been made to make the wildlife habitat free of biotic interference to foster wildlife conservation. Funding support under the Centrally Sponsored Schemes are provided for relocation of villages from protected areas.

(b) Till the IXth Plan, 103 villages have been relocated from various Protected Areas. Details of funds provided to States for relocation of villages during IXth and Xth Plan are given in the enclosed Statement (See below).

(c) and (d) The Wildlife Institute of India has been mandated to assess the core areas of tiger reserves where village relocation has to be undertaken, in addition to other protected areas of the country within a timeframe. Simultaneously, action has been taken for developing a model involuntary village relocation/rehabilitation package through a professional agency.
